

When siren falls in Love

One summer night
walked on the beach
(called by the sea)
Stopped for a moment

Suddenly - I saw a siren.

...

*I'm seeking for a poem like I'm seeking for his eyes
When shadow of the sun in the dawn, woke me up.*

*Climbing and hiding beneath the skin down at hole, still searching
I couldn't resist.*

*Melting with the sea
as he walks thru the night
Maybe moon can talk Oh, how I wish that now!*

*Listening sounds...
The nature is calling Another night without spring this lonely sky wont growing.*

*My tail is so hard and so quiet, are my words
Looking at the offing
I feel – the sea is blue.*

*Must going...
But still waiting, can't you see on this rock, I'll put my warm.
It's sailed with the tear.*

When siren falls in Love
her kisses
you can see in the sky

Every night, after midnight they are shining – beautiful stars.

Andrea Debak, Croatia