Kätlin Kaldmaa is an Estonian poet, writer, translator and literary critic. She has published four collections of poetry „Larii-laree” (1996), „One is None” (2008) and „Worlds, Unseen” (2009), „The Alphabet of Love” (2012), and two children books, „Four Children and Murka” (2010) and „The Story of Somebody Nobodysdaughter’s Father” (2012).

She has written extensively on literature, mostly literature in translation, and has translated more than 30 works of world’s best literature from British Isles to Latin America. Amongst translated authors there are Jeanette Winterson, Aphra Behn, Michael Ondaatje, James Meek, Ali Smith, Meg Rosoff, Madeleine Thien, Goran Simic and Gabriel García Márquez. Her own poems have been translated into Arabic, German, Latin, Japanese, Russian, English, Spanish, Finnish, Slovenian, French and Korean.

In 2012 she won the annual Friedebert Tuglas short story award. Kätlin Kaldmaa is the President of Estonian PEN. She is currently working on her first novel.
