

DIOGEN trazi čovjeka
2012.
DIOGEN is seeking for human being

Marianne Larsen

Marianne Larsen was born 1.27.1951 in Kalundborg, Denmark. After taking her General Certificate she studied comparative literary history and Chinese at the University of Copenhagen, and has translated modern Chinese poetry into Danish.

At age 20 she made her literary debut with the volume of poems Koncentrationer, which established her as a poet who experiments with language.

First and foremost she is a lyric poet. And has written several volumes of poetry. Her latest was published 2011 and is called Sig mig et underjordisk træ med vindens udtale (Tell me a subterranean tree with the sound of the wind). But she has also written several novels and books for children and drama.

Marianne Larsen is translated into many languages, and has received many awards and prizes. In 1989 she received the prestigious life grant by Statens Kunstfond. She has traveled widely in the North and the rest of Europe and China and Australia. She lives in Copenhagen.

<http://diogen.weebly.com>