

DIOGEN traži čovjeka
2012.
DIOGEN is seeking for human being

Marina Kljajo - Radić

Marina Kljajo – Radić was born in Mostar (Bosnia and Herzegovina) on January 25, 1962. She graduated from Faculty of Philosophy at University of Mostar, and currently, she is doing the postgraduate study of PDS Language and Culture in Contact, also in Mostar. She is respectable writer and President of Croatian Writers Society of HB. Her poems have been represented in numerous Croatian and Bosnian antologies. She has been an editor of Osvit and Naklada DHK HB, and chief editor of Bjelopoljska zora, a journal published by HKD Napredak Bijelo Polje.

She has been writing poems since she was in her earliest youth, and, up to now, she has published five collection of poems: Tragovi, Mostar, 1997.; Narančasti cvijet, Mostar, 1998.; Sjaj slova, Mostar, 2004.; Svitac kameniti, 2007., and S neba cvjetovi, Mostar – Zagreb, 2010. She writes literary reviews and essays. Her literary work has been published in many literary periodicals, as Osvit, Motrišta, Republika, Diogen, Marulić, Most, Hercegovina, Hrvatsko slovo, etc.

Her poems have been published within the book Anthology of poetry “Poets for World Peace” 2011, by DIOGEN pro culture magazine & DHIRA, Swiss.

Translated by: Ivana Šimunović

